IN THIS ISSUE

This issue of SKATING welcomes our new Art Director, Karen Gourley Lehman. Karen's innovations with the magazine have already begun and you will notice a different look this month and in the month's to come.

The results of the USFSA Sectional Championships are included here. Beginning on page 54 are the results that set the stage for the United States Championships that took place early this month.

In addition included here are the three sets of Regional Championship results that did not appear in last month's SKATING. The Northwest Pacific results begin on page 17; the South Atlantic results begin on page 19; and the North Atlantic results begin on page 22.

Stacey Smith and John Summers are profiled in "On Gold Edges," beginning on page 25. Stacey and John were interviewed by Cathy Counselman before Sectionals last month.

Also featured here is Marianne Darrow's review of John Curry's Ice Dancing. On page 28 is the review of the show blending dance and skating. A most unusual show from the 1976 British, European, Olympic and World Champion John Curry. The show played a limited engagement in New York City and may tour the United States—at least Curry has hinted at a national tour.

Do you like SKATING's new look? Let us know by writing to the magazine. All letters are welcome. Congratulations to all the competitors who traveled to Cincinnati and Grandpa had a wonderful time—replenishing his well-worn library. He helped write the report in next month's issue about the United States Championships.

ICE ABROAD

1979 Swiss Championships

There were three new champions when the 1979 Swiss Championships were over in Aarau, the silk and cotton city of Northern Switzerland, and once the capital of the Helvetic Republic.

As usual, the ladies' event was the best attended (2,300 spectators) with 16 girls competing for the title left vacant when the defending champion, Danielle Rieder, withdrew at the last minute because of an injury. Denise Biellmann, fifth last year at World's, was favorite, and after finishing second in figures, she went ahead in the short program to romp away with the title in the free skating.

The 16-year-old new ladies' champion was fresh from her triumph in the Ennia Challenge Cup in the Hague—where the Queen of Holland presented her with a new variety of tulip, the "Denise Tulip," the Dutch have named in honor of the young Swiss skater. She was in top physical condition. Her program included a triple Salchow and triple Lutz and some magnificent spinning, all harmoniously linked with an effortless flowing glide.

Fifteen-year-old Corine Wyrsh, of Zurich, who finished fourth at Prague Skate, won the silver medal. Anita Siegfried, also from Zurich, was third and presented two fine double Axels with an expressive program. Fourth was a newcomer, Miriam Oberwiler, a "jumping wonder" from the United States. Miriam is, however, 100% Swiss—born in Zurich and she lived five years in New York where she learned to skate. She and the new champion were the only skaters to execute triple jumps.

On the second day of the men's event, Daniel Fuerer, the defending champion, withdrew because of a high fever. Here was another triumph for the city of Zurich with Olivier Höner, a boy of 12, giving a surprising performance. Brother of the former Swiss champion, Daniel Höner, gave a free style performance full of promise, executing all the double jumps, except the Axel.

Another surprise was the fine pair presentation of Christine Eicher and Paul Huber of Bern who have skated together only seven months. They easily outdistanced last year's champions—their free program was original and was performed with unusual elegance and spiced with difficulty. Christine Eicher, after four seasons in the Swiss singles championships, seems to have at last found her medium.

1979 British Championships

Robin Cousins showed at Richmond Ice Rink, near London, that he has fully recovered from the fatigue fracture which kept him off the ice for some time. He gave a masterful performance to win his third British Men's title.

In the ladies' event, the defending champion was less successful. It was three years since a cheerful 16-year-old Karena Richardson defeated then British Champion Gail Keddie. This season Miss Richardson was defeated by 16-year-old Deborah Cottrill. Thus does history repeat itself.

Miss Cottrill, a shy blonde, scored the highest total points on each figure, although Karena did better on judges' placings on the final RFO paragraph loop. The first two figures, however, were disastrous for the defending champion. She was fourth on the RFO rocker and third on the back paragraph bracket.

After figures Debbie Cottrill was placed first by all but one of the nine judges. Second was Tracey Solomons, third was California-based Teresa Foy and Karena was fourth. Thus, the three-time ladies' champion was under considerable pressure for the short program. She has been known to "bounce back" (the same four girls finished in the same order in 1977 and Karena won) but this time, too much ground had been given up.

In the short program, Karena two-footed her double Axel while Debbie made no discernable errors. Tracey Solomons held onto second place but Teresa dropped to fourth.

The free skating confirmed that Debbie Cottrill was the new champion. Skating to Offenbach's Grande Duchesse de Gerolstein, she gave a beautiful and technically difficult program. Her triple Salchow was a double and her triple toe loop was landed on two feet—but everything else came off very well.

Karena does not normally do a triple jump, but she knew she must if her title was to be saved. She made her usual powerful start—a four-jump combination, a good double Lutz/flying camel/double flip and then her triple Salchow. She landed forward and put down a a hand to save herself. After that she seemed to lose heart.

In the men's event, Robin Cousins showed a marked improvement in the figures. Last year he was beaten by Andrew Bestwick, who did not compete this year because of an injury. Cousins traced a fine paragraph bracket and was awarded several marks over 4.0. However, his back paragraph loops received a couple of 2.9's.

In the free skating Cousins was unchallenged. The short program included a double flip/triple toe loop and some imaginative spins to Richard Strauss' Zarathustra. He used Russian music for the free skating—Tchaikovsky and Shostakovich—and did a fine combination double loop/triple toe loop. His other triple was the Salchow and the whole program was presented with style, grace and power.

Christopher Howarth was unanimously placed second—his high double Axels and triple Salchow were excellent. Mark Pepperday was third.

The pair championship, first held in 1914, attracted just one entry—only the third time in its history that there have not been two or more pairs. Last year's champions, Ruth Lindsey and Alan Beckwith could not compete because Alan's hand had been badly cut by Ruth's skate during practice. Susan Garland and Robert Daw, a young pair from the same club as Robin Cousins, showed they were worthy of the title. Twelve-year-old Susan and her partner, two years older, were fifth in the 1978 World Junior Championships, and have considerable potential.

1979 Japanese Championships

The 47th All Japan Figure Skating Championships were held in Shinagawa Skate Center in Tokyo, December 22-24, 1978.

After Fumio Igarashi's two huge international successes in October, his top adversary, Mitsuru Matsumura, had been somewhat depressed. But, last December he broke out of his depression and captured the 1979 Japanese Men's Championship. It was a very close battle but a very happy one for Mitsuru.

Matsumura won the figures with Igarashi close behind. In the short program, Matsumura did a double flip/double toe loop combination lacking in flow. Igarashi skated a much better short program including a double flip/triple toe loop combination and earned him first place from all nine judges after the short program.

The free skating witnessed Matsumura's flawless program with four triples—Lutz, loop,

BOOK REVIEW

Tackle Skating

by Howard Bass. Stanley Paul, London

Tackle Skating by Howard Bass is a concise volume dealing with everything the prospective skater wants or needs to know, and of much interest to those already initiated in the art of skating. Howard Bass is one of the foremost writers on figure skating, on all winter sports, in fact. With seven other books already to his credit and twenty years experience reporting on major skating championships, he can be relied upon to provide comprehensive knowledge in simple and straightforward terms. The book is not designed to take the place of professional instruction, but rather, to complement it by assisting the pupil to a clearer understanding of basic points.

There is a lot of sensible and practical advice on equipment, suitable dress etc., for the beginner. Every aspect of skating is dealt with competently—from the first hesitant steps to school figures and free-skating, with additional advice on choosing music, and finally—how to become a professional. There are chapters on pair skating, ice dancing and even speed skating. Throughout are numerous helpful diagrams illustrating positions and school figures. All but one of the many excellent photographs are by Tony Duffy who has won awards for his work in international sports photography. Tackle Skating is well worth study by those interested in learning to skate and those already “hooked” on this exhilarating sport.

Salchow and toe loop. Igarashi skated right after Matsumura's exciting performance and high marks. One of Igarashi's double Axels became a single but he completed several triples, too—Lutz, flip and toe loop and showed excellent musical expression throughout his program.

Six judges awarded Matsumura first place and three voted for Igarashi first in the free skating and overall. Matsumura won the title with 13 ordinals to Igarashi's 14:

The ladies' event seemed much less exciting than the men. Emi Watanabe easily added another national title to her record for her seventh consecutive win. Reiko Kobayashi won the silver medal and thus earned a ticket to her first World Championships, in Vienna.

Yumiko Kage and Tadayaki Takahashi won the dance title while Kyoko Hagiwara and Hisao Ozaki took the pairs title.

Howard Nicholson
1896-1978

Howard Nicholson, elected to the USFSA Hall of Fame in 1976, died Christmas Day, of cancer in Lake Placid, New York, at the age of 82.

Mr. Nicholson is perhaps best remembered for his great coaching career. Among his pupils were the great Sonja Henie, whom he began working with in 1931, Carlo Fassi, Mary Rose Thacker, Sonya Klopfer and more recently, Toller Cranston and Priscilla Hill who became the youngest USFSA Gold Medalist at the age of nine.

Mr. Nicholson began as a speed skater and hockey player but around 1910 he began figure skating and started his professional career as a show skater, appearing at the Hippodrome in New York City and later at the College Inn in Chicago.

Mr. Nicholson won the Open Professional Championship of Great Britain in 1931, and again in 1932 and 1933.

Regarded as a master of compulsory figures, Mr.

Nicholson wrote of his theories in his only book, Nicholson on Figure Skating, which deals with the figures and how each should be performed—plainly, simply and succinctly.

Originally from St. Paul, Minnesota, Mr. Nicholson first taught in Europe, passing his ISU First Class (Gold) Test in 1926. He returned to the United States after World War II and continued his distinguished teaching career in New York City, Detroit and finally Lake Placid. Howard Nicholson's legacy lives on—never forgotten and never replaced.

Mr. Nicholson is survived by a nephew, Robert Nicholson.

terested in dance until I saw my idol dancing," she said. Stacey's idol, she found out later, was Barrett Brown, John Summers' first dance pro from the SC of Boston.

John Summers' skating origins were more deliberate than Stacey's. How did he get started?

"My dad's ulcer," he said. "He had to get exercise, and so he dragged the whole family into it."

Barrett Brown, a gold dance champion from the Midwest (who also coached World competitors Kent Weigle and Judi Genovesi), said, "John taught me as much as I taught him. He was an exciting pupil who learned easily—very musical, very talented and well coordinated."

John, 21, was Brown's first competitor, eight years ago. "I remember at his first competition," she said, "he looked at me with his big eyes and said, 'I'm scared.' I said, 'That's OK, John. You're supposed to be scared.' He was endearing."

Stacey and John now skate from 11 p.m. to 4 a.m. six nights a week in Wilmington, and as a result "don't see much sun," John said. This year they skated in the Sports Festival at Colorado Springs and Skate Canada, and still have Nationals and Worlds ahead of them.

Ludington is "more a consultant than a trainer" for them, Stacey said. She and John only take two hours of lessons a week from him, "a drop in the bucket compared to our competitors," she said.

Ludington encourages all his students to be independent, since he is away at competition quite often. "We don't need him there at a competition if he can't come," John said, adding "he's not doting."

"It's hard to keep going sometimes. You have got to be self-motivated and goal-oriented. We've learned a lot about handling pressure," John said. "Every year has been important to our growth.

"I treat a competition as an exhibition, and judges as members of the audience. They're not putting any pressure on you—it's all coming from within.

"You learn to anticipate that tightness in your stomach, and think, 'oh good, I'm nervous, so I'll skate well.' We used to try too hard. Now we take the attitude, 'let's go out there and do our normal job.' "Sometimes I think there are 200 million Chinese out there who," he said laughing, don't care what happens to us.

"If you usually crack under pressure, you'd have been weeded out a long time ago," Stacey added. "Skating sure gives you an edge in dealing with stress. After skating in front of 20,000 people, and then seeing someone get nervous in a classroom before making a speech—it's just ridiculous."

Stacey and John have had to postpone their college careers until they retire, probably after the 1980 Olympics.

"I have to work to pay for my habit," John said. One year he worked (then as a busboy), attended the University of Delaware, and skated, and it was too much. Now he works as a front desk clerk at a Wilmington Holiday Inn.

Both of them are interested in business, but for now when they are not on the ice or at work, they "do some serious relaxing," John said. Stacey sews (all their costumes), reads, and plays the piano. John "tinkers with his car," he said.

But adding more and more exhibitions to competitions where the team must now defend their title, they find their commitments growing and spare time shrinking.

Defending their title won't be easy this year, since they face stiff competition from Carol Fox and Richard Dalley, who placed first over them last July at the Sports Festival.

Stacey and John's free dance program this year is to a combination of a Russian folk piece, "Summertime from Porgy and Bess (a blues), "It Aint Necessarily So" from the same show, and a piano rag by Liberace.

In addition to the compulsory dance, a contest of exactness in John's words, they will skate to the "Embassy Waltz" from My Fair Lady for the OSP.

"Stacey has poise and a style uniquely hers," Barrett Brown said. "I noticed it the first time I ever saw her skate, and I saw it again at World's last year. It's not something anyone has taught her.

"And John and Stacey. . . their hallmark is a quiet, smooth and technically accurate performance," she said. "They are warm people and it comes across on the ice."

John Curry's
ICE
DANCING

By Marianne D. Darrow

Whether John Curry is a skater who dances, or a dancer who skates, this slim, 29 year old Briton is at the center of a gathering ice storm as he blends the two disciplines into what may well be a new art—ice dancing.

That, indeed, is what he calls his ice show, "Ice Dancing," which appears to be repeating the reception of his London show last year as it glided from a sold-out benefit preview at Westchester Ice Skating Center, Hawthorne, New York to a two-week engagement in December at the Felt Forum, New York City. Curry has since mentioned a national tour.

"Ice Dancing" is different from the typical ice extravaganza since there are no clowns, slick M.C.'s, production numbers or lavish costumes. An evening of Curry and company of 13 on skates is more like an evening out at modern dance or ballet, with solos and ensemble pieces.

The same balletic grace and style that won him the 1976 World and Olympic gold medals for figure skating is stamped on this show. Although the audience might expect athletic exhibitions, it warms to the complexity and variety of these ballets on ice, minus "stunts."

In fact, competitive skating appears in name only in "Tango, Tango" skated by Curry and Jo Jo Starbuck, (United States Pair Champion, 1970-1972) with choreography by Peter Martins that is far more intricate and demanding than any other tango. The Norman Maen is responsible for Curry's most compelling work, "Afternoon of a Faun," reminiscent of the Nijinsky original but not a copy. In his spotted faun costume (a faun is a being, half man, half goat), Curry uses his long line, body and head movements with such telling effect that it is as if he were no longer skating, as his solo becomes a "third art." Cathy Foulkes of Lexington, Massachusetts is the perfect nymph to Curry's faun, repeating her London role.

John Curry, quite clearly, is the star of this show. Even though the other skater/dancers have impressive competitive and professional credentials, no one can match Curry's ice dance, except, perhaps the dazzling Starbuck. Although all the ballets are not "winners," the work by Jean-Pierre Bonnefous is a classical delight. Bonnefous uses conventional ballet groupings and movements, catching Curry's vision of translating ballet terminology to ice dance.

"Ice Dancing" is a delight—not only to the eye, but also to the ear, as the classical and modern music has been carefully chosen.

Time seems to be on John Curry's side as he prepares his own 20-year plan to educate the worlds of dance and ice skating to ice dancing. Curry trains his skaters in an original off-ice ballet-skating barre, as he knows that a dancer's second position becomes the spread eagle on ice. Curry knows that it is impossible to translate dance, step for step, to ice, but he has already come a long way to discover the shortcomings and potentials of both disciplines.

In time, perhaps a stable of Curry-trained dancer-skaters will be to ice dancing what Balanchine is to ballet. A Curry-choreographed work at "Super-skates" in Madison Square Garden introduced the phenomenal nine-year-old Katherine Healy, reflecting her ballet training in the arm movements and smoothness of combinations. With other Olympic hopefuls borrowing from dance to improve the drama in their ice dancing, Curry perhaps not only offers an alternative to competition, but a training style.

Although John Curry, who resembles English dancer Anthony Dowell and in fact the two danced with London's Royal Ballet recently, moves with ease in both worlds, it is lucky for Baryshnikov that Curry prefers skates to ballet slippers.

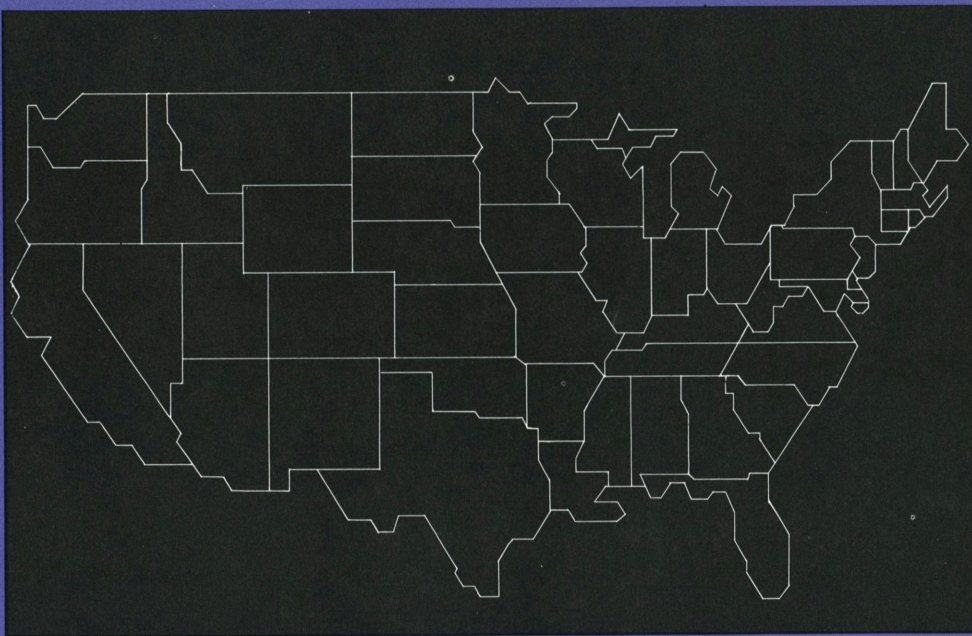

But if you still have any doubts about how far John Curry, the gentleman revolutionary, has brought the art, the New York Times listing for coming events read: DANCE: John Curry's Ice Dancing!

Marianné D. Darrow is a critic for the Ulster County Gazette and radio station WKNY in Kingston, New York.

vivacious and blonde Miss Starbuck, World bronze medalist with partner Ken Shelley 1971 and 1972, is brilliant with Curry, as she has the necessary dance background to understand his requirements.

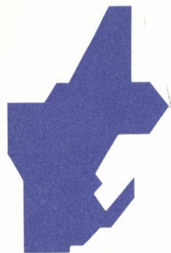

The list of choreographers attracted to this young company is most impressive. Besides Martins, there is Jean-Pierre Bonnefous, also a principal dancer with New York City Ballet, Kenneth MacMillan, Robert Cohan, Donald Sadler, Douglas Norwick and Twyla Tharp. In the second time around in New York for Miss Tharp's "After All," Curry's solo was better than ever as her ideas of speed and energy have found their best medium in skating.

NEW ENGLANDS

The 1979 New England Championships, hosted by the Yarmouth IC, were held November 15-18, 1978, at the Cape Cod Coliseum. It was the biggest skating event in local history with more than 170 competitors and 2,000 spectators.

The Senior Men's event was highlighted by double and triple jumps, splits and flying sit spins. Reggie Raiford, Pilgrim SC, easily captured first place. He won all portions of the event but his short program was exceptional. Patrick Hughes, SC of Boston, took second place with an enthusiastic performance that made the rink appear too small. Richard Rigby, SC of Boston, won the bronze, using his music to best advantage with a program of jumps that delighted the crowd.

Carol Hanson, SC of Boston, defended her 1978 New England Ladies' title, helped considerably by her strong lead after figures. Silver medalist Lisa Coppola, Pilgrim SC, gave Carol a strong challenge by winning the short program and the free skating. Lisa impressed the judges and spectators with beautiful double Axels. The crowd voiced its disapproval at the marks awarded Kelly McDermott, Hamden FSA, who took the bronze medal.

A knowledgeable and appreciative audience watched Robert Faulkner, SC of Boston, sweep Junior Men. His free skating was performed with ability and self confidence. Silver medalist Nathan Birch, SC of Boston, second in figures and third in the short and long programs, had excellent footwork. Timothy Murphy placed third, although he was second in the short program and free skating, giving one of the crowd's favorite performances.

The Junior Ladies' were less outstanding than the men. Pam Fates, Southern Connecticut FSC, won the event with consistently strong programs after finishing fourth in figures. Jann Johnson, SC of Boston, was second, and figures winner Sharon Desmond, SC of Boston, was third.

Two pairs competed in Junior Pairs and repeated the results from last year's event. Rosemary Sweeney, Colonial FSC, and Daniel Salera, North Shore SC, successfully defended their 1978 title, highlighted by their death spiral. Maryan and Bryan Amaral, SC of Boston, took the silver.

The musical interpretations throughout Novice Men were excellent and the three finalists gave strong, impressive performances. David Stanley, SC of Boston, was first, John-Paul Licari, Bridgeport SC, was second, followed by Douglas Zeghibe, SC of Boston.

The largest division in the competition was Novice Ladies with 38 contestants. Kristin Harris, Silver Blades SC, whose strong and artistic free skating dominated the event, took the gold medal. Lorilee Pritchard, Providence SC, seventh in figures, brought down the house with a lively free program that gave her the silver medal, however she won the free skating. Laurel Trela, SC of Boston, held third place after figures and carried away the bronze medal.

Novice Pairs was won by Kathleen Doolan, Individual Member, USFSA, and George Arnaoutis, Hamden FSA, followed by Deborah Marshall and Robert Rafuse, Colonial FSC.

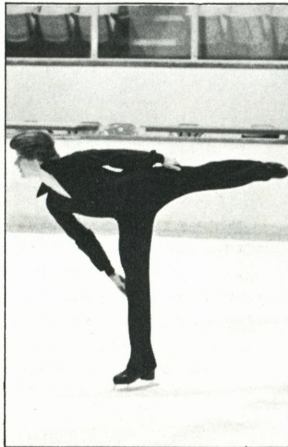

Intermediate Men was won by Douglas Yatsuhashi, SC of Boston, with a sure free program, landing solid jumps. Silver medalist Bobby Martin, Stoneham FSC, chose a sprightly Western medley for his free skating, while Robbie Boucher, SC of Amherst, a strong and mature skater, received the bronze.

The Intermediate Ladies' event, with 36 contestants, was a highlight of the competition as the crowd cheered the youngsters performing Axels, double flips, double loop/double toe loop combinations and double Salchows. Lynne Ann Frederickson, SC of Worcester, was first. The home-town favorite, Wendy Lee Weston, Yarmouth IC, was second surprising the crowd with a double Lutz and double toe loop combination. Amy Walther, SC of Boston was third.

Cheryl Ann Barlow, Comet FSC, and Russell Heyda, Silver Blades SC, Bronze Dance winners, skated with poise and well-matched movements. They were followed by Lisa Bousquet and Christopher Macri, SC of Boston, and Donna-Lynn Mitchell and William Lyons, Hamden FSA.

The Veterans Dancers gave fine performances with nicely synchronized movements and smooth skating. The gold medal went to Diane Goldman, Comet FSC, and Leonard Colarusso, Silver Blades SC, Ellie and John McKey, SC of Boston, defending their 1978 title, were second and Jacqueline and Robert Bythway, Hayden Recreation Centre FSC, were third.

Lacking enough entrants for competition, the gold and silver dance couples put on a lovely exhibition. Throughout the competition, the music and adaptations were excellent—new and varied. Officials praised the Yarmouth IC for a well-run competition.

SOUTH ATLANTICS

The 1979 South Atlantic Championships was the largest ever with over 220 entrants descending on the SC of Wilmington. The club, an airy, high domed building, was well located for most of the participants, but was not so large that the audience felt lost. A few stalwarts even camped on the parking lot.

The Summers family was one of the most interesting aspects of the competition, with the father and three sons participating. Father, John K., entered Veterans Dance, son John, with his partner Stacey Smith, gave an exhibition, and sons Steven and Frank competed against each other in Silver Dance.

The two Juvenile Boy's competitors skated a closely contested duel with Anthony Acello placing first in both figures and free skating. Brandon Lorry was second.

In Intermediate Men winner Jared Hoadly-Rigo had excellent posture and included a double flip/double toe loop combination. Second place went to figures winner Leif Erickson. Jeff Turner placed third with a colorful free style. He landed a solid double Salchow, but missed a double Lutz and double toe loop.

Novice Men's winner James Beitelman landed all the necessary double jumps in an artistic program. He had a nice series of combination jumps and held up well through the program. Robbie Rosenbluth, fifth after figures, placed second in the free skating. Third place went to Dan Logan who opened with double Axel. He skated smoothly and had good jumps.

Junior Men's gold medalist Karl Kurtz, winning all phases of the event, had a classic look with a triple toe loop and triple Salchow. He skated aggressively and landed one of two double Axels. Tim Phillips won the silver with good double jumps, a well-landed triple Salchow and skated extremely well with the music. Bronze medalist Paul Binkley exhibited a nice line and good artistic positions in a smooth mature style. He landed all his doubles and had fast spins.

All of the Senior Men were from the SC of Wilmington. Winner Mitch Moyer, who was first throughout, did a solid program with a triple Salchow, two double Axels, and nice footwork. He fell during his footwork, slid into the barrier and spiked himself. Although it was difficult and painful, he finished with footwork and a couple of jumps and spins. Jonathan Mersereau was second with several double flips, Lutz, and Axels, and a triple Salchow but no footwork. Third place winner John Dodson, fourth after the short program, ignited the crowd with his free skating. His choreography was entertaining and it was the most intricate of the Senior Men's programs.

From a group of 39 entries in Juvenile Girl's, Debra Boden won with excellent jumps and expressive interpretation. In second place was Michelle Amspoker and in third place was Kristin Bell.

There were 42 Intermediate Ladies' competitors, but the first place winner was Debbie Walls who skated the most complete program and had great crowd appeal. She landed all her jumps cleanly and showed good showmanship. Leigh Davis placed second with good figures and a solidly executed program. Bronze medalist Valory Vennes skated her way up from sixth in figures in a very aggressive program with a solid double Axel.

From 40 Novice Ladies, Leslie Sikes won first place wearing a memorable embroidered dress. She was a spirited skater in an intricate program with many dance positions and all the double jumps. In second place was free style winner Amy Grossman who shot across the ice to present a mature program with double jumps appropriately choreographed to gypsy music. She was the outstanding free skater in her category. In third place was Tiffanie Wolter, who won figures, and was a spritely crowd pleaser in a hot pink dress.

Junior Ladies' winner Leslie Shackelford moved to first after the short program with very interesting choreography. She skated smoothly and had a high powerful double Axel. Silver medalist Debbie Fahy skated to mandolin music with a nice double Axel, good line and balanced positions, and a beautiful layback. Sandy Hurtubise, the bronze medalist, was spectacular with classic power and speed. She had all her double jumps except for the Axel and gave an exciting performance. Kathy Zarpalyic, an individual member who finished ninth, landed a triple toe loop—the only triple landed by the ladies.

Senior Ladies' first place winner Amy Brown was fifth in figures, third after the short program, and first after the long program. She was strong with good elevation in her jumps. In her long program she had a beautiful lay back and a very artistic section with good choreography skated to slow violins. In second place Lori Nichol of Philadelphia had an outstanding footwork section with a double Axel and good spins. She skated a most interesting program with nice steps and arm positions but faulted on some crucial jumps. Third place winner Donna Cortese was one of the last skaters and a great deal of time had elapsed between warm up and her long program. She set up for a double Axel four different times, changed her mind to a single three times, and finally landed one.

As a group, the bronze dancers had good positions and arm movements, but weak footwork. Gold medalist Nesba and Luthin Crenshaw gave quite a finished performance. Silver medalists Caroline Ruddle and David Racine skated with good edges but lacked some unison. Bronze medalists Renee Romanus and Charlie Galligan showed good potential in an aggressive presentation.

Silver Dance was won by Holly Genola and Steven Summers with clean footwork and good unison. Their free dance had two effective pivot sections and a most expressive slow part. Second place winners Lisa Marie Clinton and Frank Summers sparkled in their Free Dance which was entertaining with two unusual lifts and a cute Broadway section. In third place Lynn Smith and Paul Giller had a nice soft style with flexed knees and an interesting lift.

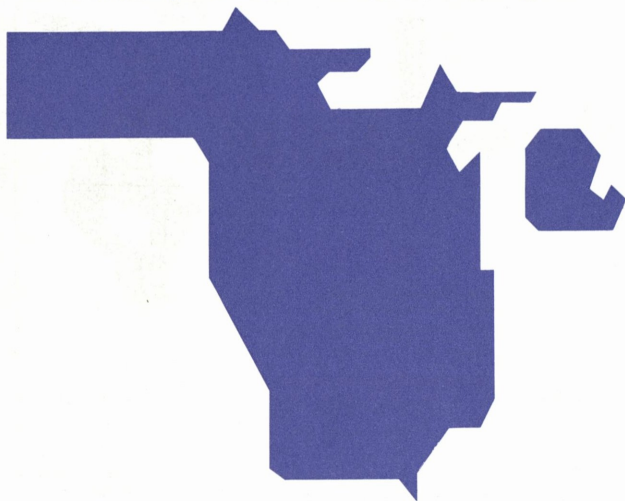

Veterans Dance was won once again by Charlotte and Emory Mersereau who showed excellent flow and unison while moving with great speed. Glenace Cohen and Charles Lally were a close second and demonstrated strong skating and clean footwork. Third place went to the new team of Honor Johnson and John K. Summers who showed strong future potential.

In Novice Pairs, Laura Sanders and Richard Hartley showed their strength as individual skaters. They presented a mature program with artistic moves and good lifts. The very young silver medalists Shauna and Richard Swenning have a unique show style with an Axel lift and beautiful side-by-side kick spirals. They have great audience appeal. Bronze medalists Tracy Canuso and Joe Walker had a double twist lift, a throw double Axel and very good lifts, but ran into trouble on the death spiral.

The Junior Pairs first place winners Lynne and Jay Freeman had an exceptionally good long program after difficulty with the short program. They executed good lifts, including a triple twist Lutz lift, landed their double jumps in unison, and did an overhead drop out lift at the end. Penny and Nicolas Perna were second with short program winners Suzannah and Jeffrey Nolt third.

UPPER GREAT LAKES

Forty-four years is a long time. But that is how long it had been since St. Louis hosted a qualifying competition. The Creve Coeur FSC, and its co-sponsor the St. Louis County Parks Department, welcomed skaters from eight states to the beautiful ice arena in Greensfelder Park for the 1979 Upper Great Lakes Championships, November 5-11, 1978.

Senior Ladies' free style winner, Tina Miezio of Du Page FSC, secured the title, combining her strong lead in figures with an elegant free program. Short program winner Bernae Peterson of St. Paul FSC, a powerful skater with fine style, finished second, and Connie Becker, Chicago FSC, was a close third.

After the Junior Men finished the figures the title was still up for grabs and it quickly became a jumping contest. Stuart Bailey, FSC of Minneapolis, made a clean sweep for the gold and was applauded enthusiastically as he displayed triple jumps and double Axels. David Michalowski, was a close second with a highly interpretive long program skated with excellent coverage of the ice. He narrowly defeated Paul Guerrero of Skokie Valley SC.

In Junior Ladies, silver medalist Bunny Blake, Skokie Valley SC, took the lead, winning both figures and the short. But, Lori Nein, also from Skokie Valley, pulled from third to take the gold with one of the finest performances of the competition. Fourteen-year-old Lori commanded the ice with her jumping skill and a maturity reminiscent of several past national champions. Doreen Glas, Du Page FSC, took the bronze with several double Axels. Theresa Willmus, Braemar-City of Lakes FSC, demonstrated the only triple Salchow performed by a lady.

Lynn Rabb, Skokie Valley SC, won Novice Ladies, placing first in figures with a remarkable set of loops and went on to win the free skating to delightful and effective music. Frankie Hermanson, FSC of Rockford, last year's Intermediate Midwestern Champion, was second, and Tina Sjodin, FSC of Minneapolis was third.

Novice Men was won by figures winner Scott Thompson, Chicago FSC, whose strong lead carried him despite a third-place free program. Free style winner Angelo D'Agostino of Skokie Valley, skated an accomplished program to take the silver, and David Dvorak, also of Skokie Valley, pulled up from fifth in figures to third with fine double jumps.

Staci Corrossi, FSC of Rockford, easily won Intermediate Ladies, captivating the crowd with her free skating. Second place went to Sharon Carz, Skokie Valley SC, whose high delayed double jumps make her a skater to watch in the future. Nine-year-old bronze medalist Maradith Feinberg, Creve Coeur FSC, skated an interpretive and mature program to Malaguena, making the home-town crowd cheer.

Skating a nice program to jazz, Danny Doran, Glenwood FSC, came from fourth in figures to win Intermediate Men. Figures winner Tommy Cierniak, Chicago FSC, was second. Creve Coeur fans got their chance to cheer again as Steve Schaefer took the bronze, accenting his program of folk music with unusually high jumps. Brother Kevin Schaefer took the gold in Juvenile Boys, followed by Patrick Hancock of Sangamon Valley FSC. Eric Turnlund, Columbia FSC, was third.

Twenty-five Juvenile Girls aged 11 and 12 competed, and Callette Matthews, Glenwood FSC, won Group A; Amy Marsicano, Lake Minnetonka FSC, won Group B; and Jennifer Lindsey of Du Page FSC won Group C.

Juvenile Girls ten and under was won by Stacey Strell, Old Capitol FSC, Stacey Lees of the Greater Milwaukee FSC was second, followed by Alicia Bongiorno, FSC of Minneapolis in third.

Novice Pair Tricia Klocke and Steve Schaefer brought the host club another title by winning the gold with mature style and soaring throw Axels. Steve was the only skater to win two medals, having earlier placed in Intermediate Men. In second place were Jan and Todd Waggoner of Chicago FSC, a seasoned pair who skated with ease and confidence. Another home-town team, Jill Davis and Brett Drury delighted the audience as they skated in Tyrolean garb to The Sound of Music to win the bronze.

Silver Dance was a crowd-pleaser with Janice Kindranchuck and Blake Hobson again taking the gold. Roberta Bonning and Donald Cudmore were second with Dana Jo Boles and Glen Cummings, third.

After the initial round, placements in Bronze Dance held stable. The event went solidly to Julie Peterson and Richard Tearney. Second place was clinched by Elizabeth Chabot and Edmund Sarphie. Sarah Reid and Dennis Muckerman of St. Louis were third out of seven couples.

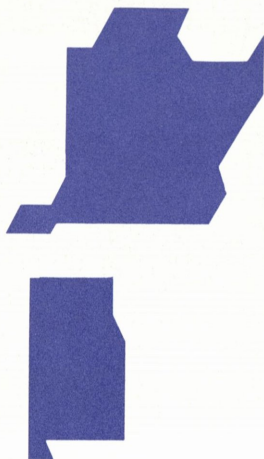

Veterans Dance belonged to Sherry Carney of Wauwatosa and John Mullen, Castle Oak FSC. Julie Jordan and Larry Tuggle of Chicago FSC were second.

EASTERN GREAT LAKES

More than 220 competitors visited the "Circle City" and traced their own brands of circles as they vied for honors at the 1979 Eastern Great Lakes Championships in Indianapolis, Indiana, November 28 through December 2, 1978, hosted by the ISC of Indianapolis.

The unquestionable highlight of the championships was the performance of Judy Blumberg and her partner, 1977 United States Silver Dance Champion, Michael Seibert. They skated a difficult OSP and free dance to bring a unanimous decision for first place from the judges in Gold Dance. Moving strongly and confidently through their OSP that included three triple twizzles, they displayed fine unison and strong edges that matched their smiles during the free dance. The silver medal went to Ellen Pulver and Donald Adair, while the bronze was awarded to Randi Rodenkirch and Lee Cobb.

Executing the only triple jump of the final competition, Kathy Franchini was the Senior Ladies' Champion. First after figures and the short program, her triple Salchow clinched the gold. Skating consistently through her long program, Kathy Swick pulled up to second place, while Lisa-beth Luther took the bronze.

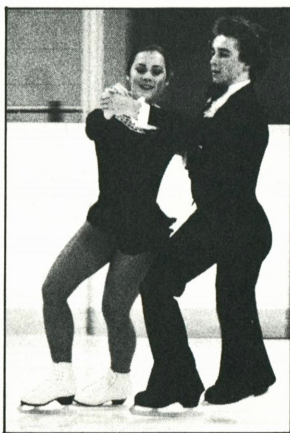

The Junior Ladies' competition was one of the tightest events as the judges strained to differentiate placings during the short programs. The long, however, told the tale as Theresa Romano's charisma and solid performance brought her the gold medal. She pulled from seventh in figures, to fourth after the short, to the title after the free skating.

Not to be overlooked was the performance by Laura Lyn Cannon, the silver medalist. Eighth after figures was Kathy Haverly and after the free skating she was the bronze medalist. Moving in mauve, Kathy included a double Axel/double toe combination in the free skating.

Although the Junior Men were marred by falls, the top competitors skated well enough to keep their short program rankings. Eddie Dom executed unusual spins in the short and good combinations in the long to breeze to the title. Ken Tekancic incorporated drama and flair using his hands and arms to earn second place. Third place went to Chuck Stafford who included a double loop/double flip combination.

Jennifer Rhule and Robbie Baker displayed several interesting lifts for first place in Junior Pairs. Sister and brother, Natalie and Wayne Seybold skated a creative program for the silver medal. Shelly Kruger and Christopher Bushell took third place.

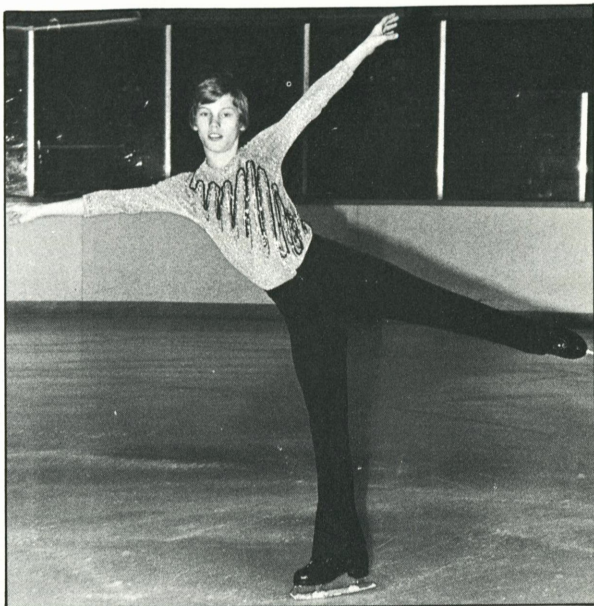

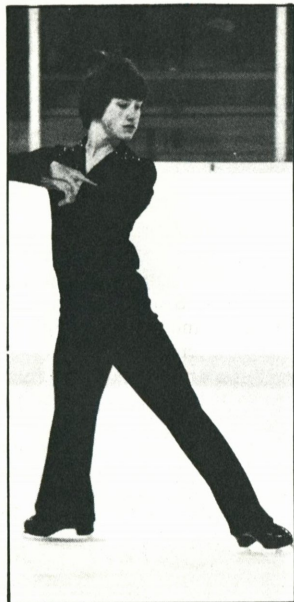

Skating a smooth program in Silver Dance, Renee Roca and Andrew Ouellette, last year's Silver Dance Champion, showed flair and unison for first place. Carol Schultz and Bill Eddy skated into second place and the graceful charm of blonde Carrie Phillips and Chip Rossbach pulled out third place.

Coming from a field of 33 competitors, Kim McClellan emerged the Novice Ladies' Champion using poetic interpretation of the music and strength in jumps. She pulled out the victory over Lisa Cook, whose good layback and spread eagle brought her the silver medal, followed closely by Lisa Zick for the bronze.

Another tight competition was Novice Men but Scott Johnson kept his first place in figures to go on and take the gold medal. Following behind were Garey Eric Dye and George Gibbs.

The unanimous first choice in Novice Pairs were Sherrin Lee Fielder and Kim Marshall who made few mistakes and demonstrated good unison for the victory. They had several double jumps, including Lutzes. Pleasing their home-town audience, Yvonne Wilson and Scott Tucker matched the green lightning streaks on their costumes as they flashed a vigorous program that brought the silver medal. Stacey Gaker and Chuck Stafford were third.

In Bronze Dance, the well-matched couple of Lynda Malek and Alexander Miller used power and good flow to bring the gold medal. Juliann and Bruce Montemayor were second while Annette Loudermilk and Joseph Golias were a capable third.

Again the ladies turned out in large numbers in the Intermediate event. Tracey Moore emerged the winner from 40 competitors. She had a slim edge over Kristen Miller and Suzy Sanitate.

In Intermediate Men, Steve Hunyadi was first after figures and finished second overall as Kevin Bryzek moved from fourth after figures to win. Brad Lewis, sixth in figures, used his free skating on his home ice to snare third place.

SOUTHWESTERNS

Houston's skating community was initiated into the fine art of hosting a qualifying competition November 15-18, 1978. A hardy "well done" goes to the organizing committee of the 1979 Southwestern Championships who arranged everything from cowgirl caddies to private taxi service. Skaters will remember the Sharpstown rink for its excellent ice, sensational sound and surely for the larger-than-life goalie painted on the wall.

Alicia Risberg captured the Senior Ladies' title, winning the figures and long program. She has made the transition to the senior level well, as she was the 1978 United States Junior Ladies' silver medalist. Short program winner Editha Dotson was second and Sharon Meridith was third.

Two couples from the Broadmoor SC competed in the first Southwestern Gold Dance event. Barbara Connelly and Robert Benes won both rounds of the event followed closely by Becky Baker and Rick Berg.

Gary Kemp gave an outstanding free skating performance to capture the Junior Men's title. Figures winner Bill Hamilton was second and Phillip Tatton was third.

The Junior Ladies were dominated by Jacki Farrell. She won all three phases of the event and was easily the most proficient jumper in the competition. She included three triple jumps in her long program, including the Lutz. The silver medal was won by Carol-reen Voelcker, the bronze by Dana Graham.

Iceland FSC dancers took the gold and silver medals in Silver Dance. Shannon Conn and Jack Hackett presented solid compulsories and an inventive OSP. Second place went to Kelleigh Perot and Ralph Ball, followed closely by Cindy Duquette and Eric Jacobson.

The Novice Men's Champion was Paul Wylie, defending his 1978 Southwestern Novice Men's title. He showed improvement this year, skating with confidence. Glenn Slocum was second and Todd Reynolds took the bronze medal.

Brenda Welliver secured the Novice Ladies' gold medal with sure free skating. Figures winner Jean Ellis was second and Sheryl Lindhorst was third, out of 32 competitors.

Kelley Herman and Dale Copenhaver skated to first place in Novice Pairs with good flow and fine ice coverage, blended with some sparkling lifts. In second place were Kathleen McMillan and Bill Hamilton while Kristie and Todd Dawson were third.

In Bronze Dance, Kelli Haveman and Tim Totter received the unanimous first place vote from the judges. Cindy Moor and David Chambers were second and Katharine Binkowski and Michael McDermott were third.

Billy Lawe skated a flawless free style program to win Intermediate Men. Brent Reynolds was second in both the figures and free style for the silver medal and Martin Jakubowsky was third.

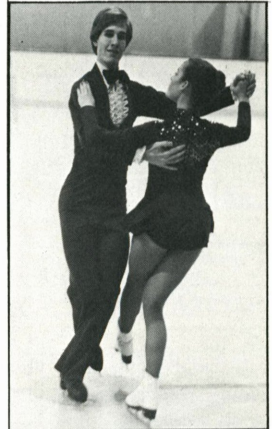

Intermediate Ladies' was an accountant's nightmare. The three medal winners were a hairsbreadth apart. Stacey Hutzler, fifth in figures and second in the free skating, came away with gold medal while Christina Ellis won both the figures and free style and received second place. Third place went to Vlasta Egeto.

Juvenile and Pre-Juvenile Girls winners and runners-up looked sensational and should soon make exciting Intermediate Ladies. Juvenile Girls' winners were: Group A—Cindy Ponder; Group B—Elyse Hochstadt; and, Group C—Sue Negrin. The Pre-Juvenile Girls' winners were: Group A—Carrie Weber; Group B—Michelle Montague; and, Group C—Bri-getta Verspohl.

Eddie Shipstad carried away the Juvenile Boy's title. Figures winner Joel McKeever was second and Jeffrey Cannon was third.

The 1979 Southwesterns had the look of a warm-up event, with experienced competitors trying new moves, or new music, with some very strong performances by the younger skaters—hints of what will be seen at Nationals in Cincinnati.

NORTHWEST PACIFICS

The 1979 Northwest Pacific Championships were an astounding success for competitors, officials, spectators and for the town of Bellevue, Washington. Hosted by the Overlake SC, December 13-16, 1978, the events cleared the way for the Pacific Coast Championships.

Staci Loop from Lakewood WC won the Senior Ladies' title. After establishing a strong lead in figures, silver medalist Kim DiPietro, Portland ISC, could not make up any lost ground, even though she won the short program and the free skating. Ruth Ann Aquino, also from Portland, was third.

Eleven Junior Ladies' competed with Beth Names, Lakewood WC, emerging as the winner. Beth was second in this event last year. Short program winner Renee Bagley, Jantzen Beach FSC, was second and Beth Flora, Portland ISC (last year's Northwest Pacific Novice Ladies' Champion), was third.

Beth Flora won another medal in Junior Pairs as she and her brother, Ken, won both the short and the long programs. Cara and Craig Gill from Spokane FSC were second.

In Silver Dance the winners were Sheri Gartner and David Stair, Portland ISC, whose clean, crisp edges secured the gold medal. In second place were Kristen Steinhauer and Michael Stephenson from Great Falls FSC, the 1978 Northwest Pacific Bronze Dance Champions.

Arnold Alt, Lakewood WC, came out on top in Novice Men by his consistent skating. Figures winner, Craig Gill (taking home his second medal) was second and Scott Wendland, Lilac City FSC, won the free skating but garnered only the bronze medal.

Rosalyn Sumners, Seattle SC, won the Novice Ladies' title easily with her sure style and grace. She won both the figures and the free style. Clubmate Gretchen Seiler, although third in figures and free style, took the silver medal while Becky Fosha, Overlake SC, was third.

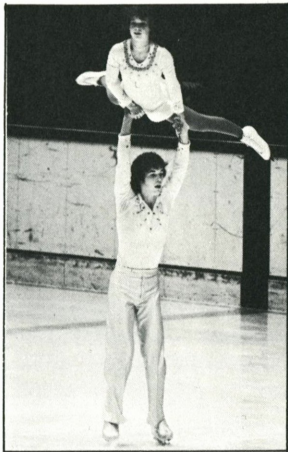

The unanimous choice for the Novice Pairs title was Heather Hoffinger and Chris King, Portland ISC. Next, for the silver medal, were Cynthia and Rick Brown, while Jill Williams and Jeff Bergdorf, Lilac City FSC, were third.

Bronze Dance was an exciting division yet the clear winners were Janice Teodoro and Jim White from Lakewood WC. They won both rounds of the event. In fact, the first round standings remained unchanged after the completion of the event. In second place were Kathy Cloyd and Rick Moss, Seattle SC, followed by Sherry Slemko and Thomas Quinn, Lakewood WC.

The 1978 Northwest Pacific Juvenile Girl's winner won the 1979 Intermediate Ladies' title, successfully making the adjustment to the more difficult level of competition—Lani Pim, Lakewood WC, took the gold, winning both the figures and free skating. She was followed by Nancy Sullivan, Jantzen Beach FSC, and Shannon Shields, Lakewood WC.

There were eight Preliminary Dance couples and Theresa Link, an Individual Member of the USFSA, and Stacy Belzer, Anchorage FSC, won both the initial and final rounds. Melissa Carlson and Michael Yeager, Great Falls FSC, were second followed by Kristen Lind and James Kelsey, Anchorage FSC.

With sure figures and promising free skating, Tami Imhoff, captured the Juvenile Girl's gold medal. Heather Hoffinger took the silver medal (that matched the gold she won in Novice Pairs), and Stephanie Heitz won the bronze.

The Sub-Juvenile Boy's title went to Thad Wocasek, Great Falls FSC. He was followed by figures winner Timothy Huff, Jantzen Beach FSC, and Michael Yeager, Great Falls FSC.

The Sub-Juvenile Girl's title went to Carla Spangler, Lakewood WC. The silver medal went to Tonya Harding, Portland ISC, and the bronze went to Dawn Jackson, Jantzen Beach FSC.

CENTRAL PACIFICS

The 1979 Central Pacific Championships hosted by the Sacramento SC, November 15-19, 1978, featured thirty-two events including two drill team categories.

Suzie Brasher, Utah FSC, successfully defended her 1978 Central Pacific Senior Ladies' title, winning both the figures and the short program. Laurie Chemsak, St. Moritz ISC, dazzled both judges and audiences with her free skating and won the silver medal, after finishing fourth in figures. In third place was Linda Harries, St. Moritz ISC.

Kevin Peeks, St. Moritz ISC, showed exceptional talent as he swept the short program and free skating to the Junior Men's title. After winning the Novice Men's title last year, Kevin shows promise for a bright future. Figures winner Jeff Davis, El Camino ISC, was second and Bob Bowles, Santa Rosa FSC, was third.

The Junior Ladies' were dominated by Danelle Porter who won all phases of the event and received the first place votes from all five judges. Her figures are strong and confident while her free skating has style and grace. Lisa Ralston, SC of Sacramento, took the silver medal with a strong set of figures and a good short program. In third place was Mary Honsinger, El Camino ISC, skating consistently well throughout the event.

Danelle Porter won her second gold medal of the competition with Burt Lancon, Houston FSC, as they stormed through Junior Pairs. Kelly Abolt and Kevin Peeks (winning his second medal) from St. Moritz, were second, followed by Beth and Kevin Rosenstein, ISC of Fresno.

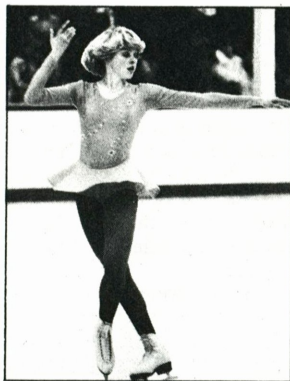

The silver dancers showed good unison and rhythm in both rounds but Karen Robinson, St. Moritz ISC, and Peter Sasmore from El Camino, were clearly the winners. In second place were Vicki Noga and Charles Klug, St. Moritz ISC, and the bronze medal went to Sigrid Miller and Fritz Schreyer, also from St. Moritz. In fact, in Silver Dance and Junior Pairs each placement was by a unanimous decision by the judges.

The Novice Men's title went to last year's Intermediate Men's Champion Craig Henderson, Stockton FSC. Craig had a poor start, finishing fourth in figures but his free skating saw him to the title. Silver medalist Todd Fisher, St. Moritz ISC, won the figures but fell to sixth place in the free skating to finish second overall. Clubmate Tom Schneider was second in figures and fifth in free skating to take the bronze medal.

The St. Moritz ISC swept the three medals in the Novice Ladies' event. The gold went to Celia Boyer whose lead from figures held off all challengers. Julia Deady was second and Pam Collet was third. The free skating highlight of the event was El Camino's Tashia Jones. She presented a fine program and well composed choreography to finish fourth overall—winning the free skating and finishing seventh in figures and she received one second place vote from the judges.

The six Novice Pairs all show promise with good unison and lifts. Stephanie Taylor and Jeff Hawley, El Camino ISC, were the winners, followed closely by Shana Hendricks and Roy Brown from St. Moritz. In third place, only two ordinals behind the silver medalists, were Lori and Frank Seidman, Crystal Springs ISC.

Julie Donovan and Patrick Milinsky won the Bronze Dance title, winning both rounds of the event. Their trip to Pacific Coasts was unfortunately cancelled because Patrick was hit by a car and suffered severe head injuries. His recovery will be long and all wish him well. In second place were Linda Anderson, El Camino ISC, and Craig Henderson, Stockton FSC, winning his second medal. In third place were the St. Moritz couple, Michelle and Christian Brodale.

There were two couples entered in Veterans Dance and Claire and Charles Hayek from El Camino were first followed by Mimi Shimmin and John Day, from St. Moritz.

Jim Drake from Sacramento led the field in Intermediate Men all the way. He was followed by Brad Duncan, Capital City FSC, and Mark Dianda from El Camino.

A large group of Intermediate Ladies made an exciting competition. Joanne Gomez, St. Moritz was the most consistent skater, winning the figures and coming in second in the free skating. Debbie Thomas, Crystal Springs ISC, was second and third was the free skating winner Heather Nelson, St. Moritz. Heather's performance was smooth and sure. She delighted the crowd with her jumps and graceful spins.

The Senior Drill Team event was won by the Utah Bee Team, followed by the Santa Rosa Senior Drill Team, the SC of Sacramento Drill Team and the Spiritettes Drill Team. In the Junior division, the winners were the SC of Sacramento followed by the St. Moritz Junior Team.

The championships featured a Pre-Intermediate Men's category, won by Stephen Nelson, St. Moritz ISC, who finished second in both figures and free style but his consistency brought him the title. Second was free skating winner Dean Chin, St. Moritz ISC, and third was figures winner Robert Rowan, SC of Sacramento.

Pre-Intermediate Ladies' Group "A" was won by Jill Janssen, Silver Edge FSC, followed by Laura Galindo, Mission Valley ISC, who won the free skating in fine style. In third place was Lori Mayne, ISC of Fresno.

Pre-Intermediate Ladies' Group "B" was won by figures winner Cynthia Winter, ISC of Fresno, whose figures lead could not be overcome by free skating winner Tami Tsark, Santa Rosa FSC. Linda Pacheco, El Camino ISC, won the bronze medal.

Juvenile Boy's was dominated by Jeffrey Hammer from Santa Rosa. He showed talent and hints of greater skating in the years to come. Second was Michael Dianda, El Camino ISC, and third was Ricky Anderson, Capital City FSC.

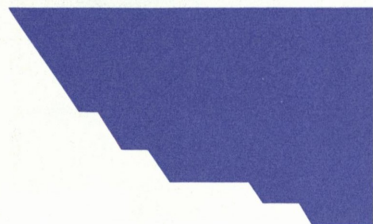

Kendall Travaglio, St. Moritz ISC, was Juvenile Girl's Champion from a field of 15. She won both figures and free skating. She was followed by Yvonne Gomez, also of St. Moritz, and Kathryn Adams, Diablo FSC.

Preliminary Pairs Champions were Lisa Beers and Brad Duncan, Capital City FSC. Preliminary Dance Champions were Michelle Segni, Stockton FSC, and Ricky Anderson, from Capital City.

The Pre-Juvenile Boys Champion was Jeff Meyers, Stockton FSC. Pre-Juvenile Girl's Group "A" Champion was Sebrina Olvera, St. Moritz ISC; Group "B" Champion was Diedra Pippi, Stockton FSC; Group "C" Champion was Teena Miller, Marin FSC; and Group "D" Champion was Danielle Dubois, Stockton FSC.

The Preliminary Boy's Champion was Brian Harmon, Santa Rosa FSC. The Preliminary Girl's Group "A" Champion was Leslie Nelson, SC of Sacramento; Group "B" Champion was Sandra Diefenderfer, St. Moritz ISC; Group "C" Champion was Buffy Lewis, Utah FSC; Group "D" Champion was Kim Ebdon, Stockton FSC; and Group "E" Champion was Tammy Pappas, El Camino ISC.

SOUTHWEST PACIFICS

Two hundred thirty-seven competitors, converged on the "Southland" city of Costa Mesa, California for the 1979 Southwest Pacific Regional Championships, sponsored by the Mesa Verde FSC and the Santa Monica FSC. The talent and enthusiasm displayed by skaters, judges, staff and viewers radiated through the arena.

Cindy Moyers, showed her superiority throughout the Senior Ladies' event. Leading comfortably after figures, she skated a strong short program despite a fall on her double Axel. Her well-choreographed Spanish style free skating included a double flip/double loop combination and forward camel spins in both directions.

Lori Benton, fourth after the short program, brought it all together in her long program. She did an excellent flying reverse sit spin and a lovely layback spin moving her into second place. Stephanie Anderson worked her way from sixth place in figures up to the bronze medal.

Junior Lady Kimberly Hassler was given first place by all seven judges in figures. In second place was Joyce Newell followed closely in third by Michelle Schelske. A strong short program helped keep Kimberly in first place. However, it was Joyce who shined in the long program. Skating to snappy Spanish music, she delighted the audience with the only triple jump—a triple toe loop. Two double Axels were also beautifully executed. Kimberly, in her long program, landed two double Axels but had difficulty on a third. She also missed a triple Salchow. Still she skated well enough for the silver medal. Michelle skated a good long program, although she, too, faltered on several landings, and kept third place.

Novice Ladies' was by far the strongest group of the competition. Twenty-eight initial entries were reduced to twelve for the final round. Vikki de Vries won the gold with her superb technical skating and elegant high jumps which included a triple toe loop, triple Salchow and double Axel. Maria Causey skated with beautiful style and expression to finish in second place. Tricia Burton skated well to maintain third place.

Reducing four initial rounds of 38 skaters to twelve finalists provided an outstanding Intermediate Ladies' event. Debbie La Verde, the eventual winner, was third after figures. An exceptionally well-skated program, which included a double Axel, assured her of the gold medal. Kathleen Haines won the silver. Jennifer Newman moved from sixth in figures to a final third place.

Juvenile Girl's champion, Michelle Muramota, combined steady skating with good figures for her win. Laura La Riva, placed second with Jenny Hardin finishing third.

The Junior Men's division was marked by a switch of placements between figures and the final rounds. Tom Dickson, fifth after figures, won the short program. He went on to win the long program as well as the title showing exceptional power and speed on the ice. His long program excited the audience with daring jumps that included a triple Salchow, triple toe loop, triple loop and a double Axel/double toe loop combination. Bobby Beauchamp advanced from seventh in figures to second overall. He skated an artistic program featuring a triple toe loop and the best double Axel of this division. Todd Sand, figures winner, dropped to third in the final standings.

Scott Williams, winning Novice Men, skated a showy freestyle program to Western music. He had the only triple jump in the division, a solidly landed triple toe loop, and a double Axel. Christopher Bowman was all style with exceptional power and speed. His brilliantly interpreted program earned him second place. Jim Cygan skated to third place.

Sergio Ballongue won the Intermediate Men's title with a strong free skating program. Jim Reamy, second place winner, was also consistent in his freestyle performance. The surprise of the event was Darryl Hollingsworth, whose dynamic freeskating program bounded him from tenth place after figures to the bronze medal.

Terry Davis' exceptional showmanship in his freestyle program combined with a first place figure standing made him the Juvenile Boy's Champion. Second place went to John Davidson. Aladin Sulemanajic was third.

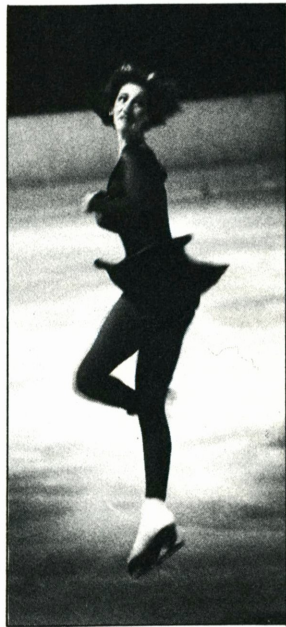

Larry Schrier and Maria DiDomenico, 1978 National Junior Pair Champions, were a well-matched senior pair. They packed their program with exciting and difficult moves and fine unison, highlighted by their split double twist, side-by-side double flips, one-handed press and a sharp somersault descent from an overhead lift. Edward and Dana Reisman and Hal and Lyndy Marron placed second and third respectively.

Novice Pairs Champions Deborah Lynch and Keith Green were by far the superior team in their event. Their well-choreographed program featured full overhead press lifts and good unison. The silver medal went to Elaine Asanakis and Gregg Moon. Tammy Stephens and Taylor Hawes were third.

Gold Dance competitors included Karen Berzon and Gary Forman and the winning team of Dee Oseroff and Craig Bond. Dee and Craig's compulsory dances were skated with their unique characteristic style. Both their OSP and free dance were executed with technique, consistent unison, fast flowing edges and movements done on supple knees.

The Silver Dance couples demonstrated a variety of styles. The champions, Robi Shepard and Kelly Witt, led from the beginning. The Silver Tango was by far their strongest compulsory dance. Robi and Kelly's free dance was distinguished by fine transitions from tempo to tempo, with moves and unison that comes from experience. Stylish Susan De Rose and partner Mike McIntyre maintained second place throughout the event, with the bronze medal going to Deanna Stone and Randy Branca.

Colette Huber and Jason Aloisio emerged as Bronze Dance champions from a field of eleven couples. They danced with confidence and surety of edges demonstrating their control and flow. The silver medal went to Barbara Howell and David Purves and the bronze medal went to Terri Demers and David Dartt.

Ann Robertson

See then with what Rashness the Scater goeth upon the outer Edge: over a Slippery and Brittle Floor he moveth, with but a Hair's Breadth betwixt him and Destruction!"

This picturesque 18th century quote might well apply to the competitive skater of today, for the daring athletic feats that are performed on skates today require superb skill and almost reckless courage.

We now have the triple Axel. Is the first quadruple jump far behind? And how will it look? Will it be a beautiful skating movement? or a circus feat?

One of the highlights of skating carnivals used to be the performance of a skater jumping over a number of barrels. It was exciting to see him tear around the rink, gathering speed for the big leap, and hurl himself over the casks and slither to a spectacular stop. It was great because such a long jump could not be performed on terra firma. And when he added another barrel the crowd became super-excited in expectation of even a greater thrill. But, the additional effort required for a record-breaking leap, destroyed much of the elegant body action.

Skating today would seem to be following the pattern of the barrel jumper—a continual search to discover how to twist in the air more and more and land without falling down. It is a search for circus feats.

Before another word is said about this appraisal, it would be wise to ponder what skating was, is, and should be.

Skating is sliding. It began in the late Middle Ages on the ice-bound canals in Holland as a speedy means of travel. It was imported into England at the Restoration by the Royal House of Stuart—who had learned to skate during their exile in the Netherlands.

It quickly gained favor as a delightful passe-temps among the nobility, but the English pond was small and not suitable for racing or the long gliding movements fitting the Dutch canals. Quick turns and twists were needed in such a small space (a motive to cut all manner of designs upon the ice), and Figuring began. Later in the Victorian era, "Figure Skating" developed into a veritable passion among the gentry. It was on these quiet stretches of frozen water that most of the basic movements of skating were discovered and developed.

For a very long time skating was a scientific art. Figures dominated over any frivolity of the skater's imagination such as spinning, jumping, or dancing and so on.

Whither Skating? Part II

BY NIGEL BROWN

Through the years "Figure Skating" developed into a splendid grammar of the science. It was the beginning and not, as once thought, the zenith of the art.

Lyrical expression of poetry in motion that had always been present on the ice rink—and an accomplishment particularly suited to feminine charm—received an all important impetus when women indulged in skating in great numbers, facilitating it to develop the ingredients of a fine art.

Then abruptly this idyll was quashed. Athletics in the form of jumping invaded the ice rink. The idea was not new. Nearly two centuries ago, the Edinburgh Skating Club, the first ice club in the world, required for qualification for membership, a candidate to successfully jump over first one, then two and then three hats that were placed on the ice. Although such a feat cannot be truly termed an athletic performance, it does possess the ingredients of daring and courage on a dangerous surface such as ice, and shows very early one direction in which skating was destined to turn.

But jumping today has overlapped the stage of conformable intregation in a beautiful art form—it monopolizes skating. Style and aesthetics are being swept away by speed and the craze for circus feats. Sliding (skating) is now confused with sprinting, to gather the momentum necessary to execute a "triple," turned rapidly, almost rolled up, with a minimum of elevation. A jump is beautiful when it has height and length and performed with elegance.

In the top competitions today, it appears to be an unwritten rule, that whirling as many revolutions in the air as possible is the passport to the title. John Curry had to perform "triples" before being acclaimed World Champion. Yet, two years earlier, his skating, and in this case the term which designates art should be underlined, was just as beautiful and immaculate to warrant him a title then.

Fortunately John Curry possessed the athletic ability and muscular power to perform triple jumps, so finally no one could ignore his right to the supreme skating crown.

Leaving Curry alone on an enchanted island, observe what is happening in the modern ice arena. Competition programs are fantastic exhibitions of skill on skates through their jumping feats. One after the other, the competitors, like robots, hurl themselves in the air attempting double and triple jumps, too often falling, and repeating the "missed" jump, which make these performances painful to follow.

However, a gleam of hope appears on the ice from figure skating's "poor relation," ice dancing. Sliding, artistry, elegance, body comportment, music and choreography combine to make ice dancing the art form of modern skating. The box office shows the general public's first choice in the big competitions is Ice Dancing.

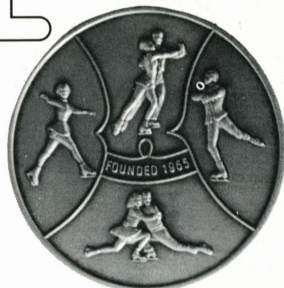

We must be approaching the limits of what is possible and what is not in acrobatical athletics, so perhaps officialdom should begin to consider curbing this craze for circus feats, to be less fascinated by extraordinary things that can be done on a pair of skates, and concentrate in guiding figure skating along natural lines where harmony and proportion, as in the older arts of ballet and dance, are supreme.

Dear Kid Talk,

I am 8 years old and have been skating for six years. My sister and I skate together at the Jim Campbell Ice Skating Center and we belong to the DuPage FSC. I am on my Second Test and my highest jump is the double toe. My mom is a professional ice skating teacher at the rink. At my last competition I placed first in free style and third in the compulsories.

Happy Skating,
Linda Tiberi,
Downers Grove, IL

Dear Kid Talk,

I am 14 years old and I skate at River Rouge, Dearborn and Melvindale figure skating rinks. I have been skating for two years, am working on my Second Figure Test and belong to the Great Lakes FSC. I have been in one USFSA competition and I placed second. I am going to Tri-State this year and I hope to do just as well—if not better. My best friend Sherry Barkman took her Preliminary Figure Test last month and I wished her a lot of luck.

Your Skating Friend,
Mindy McKelvey,
Lincoln Park, MI

Dear Kid Talk,

Hi! I am 9 years old and I skate at Saint Cloud FSC. I have been skating about 2½ years and I have passed my Preliminary Test. I am working on my First Test and my loop, flip, camel spin and my split jump. Soon I will put together a routine. I love your magazine!

Skate Great!
