ALL CALORIES ARE NOT CREATED EQUAL

Most of us think of calories as being all bad. They're not. You need the energy they provide.

However, some foods provide more nutrients with their calories than others and work harder for you nutritionally.

In other words, some foods have more nutrients per calorie than others.

And soup is one of those foods.

SOUPED-UP CALORIES

Most Campbell's Soups are dense in nutrients, so you get a higher level of nutrition with fewer calories than you get from many other foods.

MORE NUTRIENTS IN SOUP CALORIES

Because of their nutritionally hard-working calories, many Campbell's Soups are more nutritious than other good foods. Calorie for calorie, Campbell's Tomato Soup has more Vitamin C than carrots or apricots.

Campbell's Vegetable Soups are excellent sources of Vitamin A.

Campbell's Minestrone, for instance, has more Vitamin A per calorie than eggs.

And some Campbell's Soups supply other recognized, but less well-known nutrients called "trace elements" which the body needs in small but essential amounts to function properly.

So get the benefit of the hard-working calories in Campbell's Soups, with an added dividend. The calories in Campbell's Soups taste great!

DIAL - (615) 523-EDGE

It was late in the afternoon, my unruly beginner class of eight-year-olds was getting to me, doing little of what I wanted, and nothing right. I was hungry, irritable, the public session music was too loud—I was in a thoroughly bad way. In desperation, I drew two circles on the ice with snow piles and told the class to follow the snow using cross-overs—in short a figure eight. To make certain, I started first, motioning for them to follow. Soon I stopped but they, for the first time that afternoon, did not. Around they went, over and over, absorbed. I watched for the first signs of boredom, but only exhaustion stopped them. Not for long. Back to the eight they'd go, looking like eager archaeologists un-covering the first signs of a remote civilization.

In using this "gimmick" often since, I'm no longer surprised at the intense concentration produced. The word mesmerized comes to mind. Trance, too, reminding me of the story told by the late Hans Johnsen. Hans was in the habit of following pupils around practice figures, talking or not as fitted the situation. A particular lesson started well enough but fell apart when Hans drifted off into his own thoughts. Startled back to reality by his pupil plaintively asking, "Can I stop now, Mr. Johnsen?", Hans looked at the clock, stunned. Twenty-five minutes had gone by. Or perhaps you've heard the one about the famous instructor who (absently-mindedly, I suppose) left his equally famous English champion doing figures while he dined. Upon returning, he was shocked to discover the girl still working. "But you didn't tell me to stop," she exclaimed.

Perpetual motion never had a more valid booster than the skated eight. Is there a need to explain this phenomenon? What compels little children to propel themselves out of warm beds into huge freezer lockers that are ice rinks while the sun is lighting another part of the earth? Who can explain it? Maybe by now a former pupil of mine who was interning in psychiatry at a Berkeley hospital some years ago. Jumping and spinning, especially the former, were his delights. The suggestion of a figure eight, however, made him blanch. "Oh no," he would say. "There's something fishy about all that going around and coming back where you started and never getting anywhere. I'm going to have to look into it some day." I haven't heard from him but I suspect he may have been trapped on an eight one day and is still on it.

Sports reporters question the figure eight. To them, watching competitive figures is as interesting as having to count jelly beans in Reagan's candy jar. Patterns on ice being judged for brilliance give the illusion that that's the be-all-and-end-all of figures. Huh-uh. Eight-making has emotional, as well as mental, symmetry. The confusion of the world is pushed aside for awhile as the path stretches endlessly, seamlessly, and the body sings a soothing melody as the flow of the blade produces one vast muscular hum. Mozart would have loved it. (He would probably have then composed a concerto for three turn, two loops, four edges and twenty patchers.)

But there is that incredible roundness to circles. You laugh! But consider: earthly motion is straight lines. A thrown ball will not return to the thrower. Whirled objects released will not stay "in orbit." Even a boomerang does not make a real circle. But we can. A push, a slight "falling" of weight, a minute tip of blade and voila! le cercle. Seen from a distance, the eight is a necklace of two pearls. Mentally strung together, they are more precious than a perfect Pac Man score. Appreciate, appreciate.

All directions given in a ballet class are traditionally spoken in French. Just as Port de Bras means carriage of the arms, Port de Tete is then carriage of the head.

Head gestures can be utilized by skaters to enhance the movements of the torso and limbs. A lot of expression is lost when the head remains stationary, even though suitable arm and body movements are being performed.

A very simple rule to use that will help you get the habit of moving your head is to ALWAYS FOLLOW A MOVING ARM WITH YOUR HEAD AND EYES. This will automatically endow you with an expression that was not there before, even if you don't feel it internally.

Experiment by standing in front of a mirror and keep your head straight forward, not moving it at all. Now, improvise all kinds of arm movements. You will notice how static and expressionless it is. Next, repeat the arm movements and follow them with your head and eyes. You can glance at the mirror out of the corner of your eyes and see how much more interesting you look and how you automatically acquired more expression. As you practice this simple exercise, the easier and more natural your head movements will look, and you will also begin to internalize more expression.

You are not designing head movements at this point. You are merely developing the habit of moving your head naturally and in coordination with the movements of the rest of your body. Apply this now to your skating program and see how much more expression is automatically instilled in your overall look.

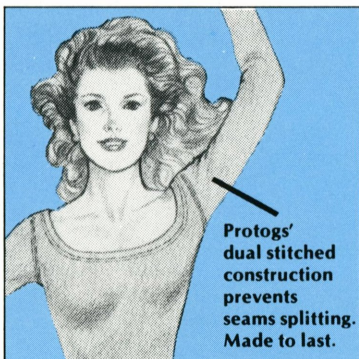

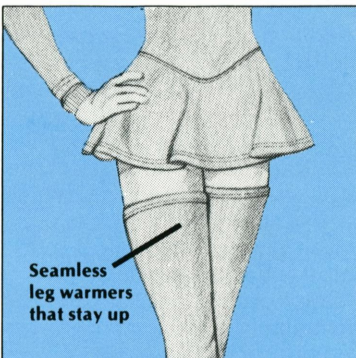

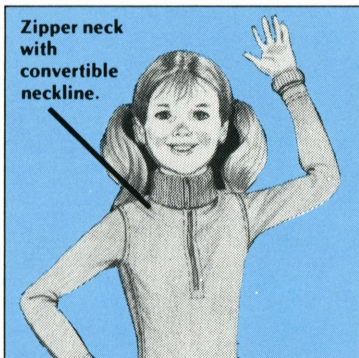

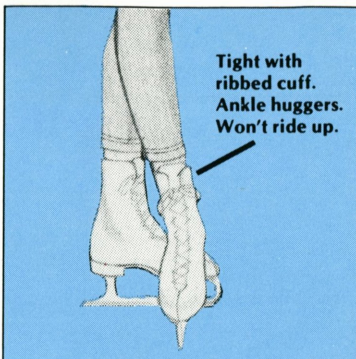

Following your arm movements with your head and eyes is a basic tool to use and a rule that you can deliberately break whenever you want to get a different expression or a more dramatic look. Try doing an arm movement and deliberately turn your head away from it. You are now working in opposition and many times this gives a very strong feeling to your overall picture.

When talking about movements of the head, it would be well to analyze the different ways the head can move. Imagine that there is a square picture frame hanging in space about ten inches in front of your face. Starting with your head straightforward in the middle of the frame, try the following head positions:

1. Lower your chin and point it to the bottom left corner of the picture frame.
2. Lower your chin and point it to the bottom right corner.
3. Lower your chin and point it to the center of the bottom of the frame.
4. Raise your chin to top middle of the frame.
5. Raise your chin and point it to the top right corner.
6. Raise your chin and point it to the top left corner.
7. Point your nose to the middle of the left side of the frame.
8. Repeat to the right. (Side to side movements can be used as a quick accent.)
9. To do a half roll with the head, turn your head directly to the left and point your chin to the top left corner of the frame. Lower it to the bottom left corner, then to the middle of the bottom of the frame, letting your chin almost

Guide for the Skater.*

CONSTRUCTION OF A BALANCED DIET

We obtain our needed nutrients from foods, and so a basic knowledge of the nutritional composition of foods is necessary in planning a balanced diet. A balanced diet is one that contains all the required nutrients in proper quantities that meet the nutritional needs of individuals. In addition, it should contain the proper amount of calories to meet physical activity and lifestyle. The proper amount of calories is that quantity which keeps your weight at the most desirable level. Table 1 shows the recommended caloric allowance for a person by height, weight and age, and Table 2 shows the protein, vitamin and mineral allowance by age and sex.

There are several ways that a balanced diet can be constructed. One way is to calculate the amount of nutrients derived from each food item eaten throughout the day using conventional nutrition composition tables as reference. This method, although used routinely by dietitians and nutritionists, is time-consuming and not very practical for the average person. Another approach, which is much simpler and more practical for general usage, is to plan and assess a diet using eating guides.

In the Basic Four Food Group Guide, foods are chosen from four main groups—Milk, Meat, Vegetable and Fruit, and Bread and Cereal, (Table 3). Foods are placed in these four food groups on the basis that they contain similar nutrients. For example, servings from each food group are provided by age group; i.e., from the Milk group: 2 or more servings for adults; 4 servings for teens and 3 servings for children; From the Meat group: at least 2 more servings for all age groups; From the Vegetable-Fruit group: at least 4 or more servings; From the Bread-Cereal group: at least 4 servings or more. While the Basic Four Food Group Guide is the best practical guide we have today for meeting our nutritional needs, care must be taken to select a variety of foods within each and among all four groups.

Many of the recommended foods deal with fresh foods. However, we eat many processed foods or, foods containing items from more than one of the groups that can be translated into nutritious eating. For example, pizza may contain items from all four food groups—Meat, Bread-Cereal, Milk and Vegetable. Tomato soup prepared with milk contains both Vegetable and Milk groups. Canned beans can be used as a contributor to the Meat group. Vegetable juice can be used as a substitute for Vegetables. A cheeseburger with lettuce and tomatoes has items from the Milk, Meat, Vegetable and Cereal groups.

Nutrition is important to your health—both mental and physical—and your ability to perform up to your maximum potential. You are in charge of what you eat so it's up to you! Take the time to learn about foods and which ones are needed to fulfill your needs. Of course, it's important that you enjoy them. We're certain you can select foods that meet your nutritional needs and are enjoyable.

Museum Newsletter

There was much excitement during the first week of December 1982 at the USFSA Hall of Fame and Museum. Robin Cousins, 1980 Olympic Gold Medalist, was honored in recognition of his donation to the museum of the costume he wore for his long program at Lake Placid.

A special autograph party was hosted by the USFSA Hall of Fame and Museum later in the week and was open to the public. Along with Robin were Lea Ann Miller and Bill Fauver, 1982 Skate America Pairs' Silver Medalists, and Vikki de Vries, 1982 Skate Canada Ladies' Champion. Among our many visitors was Monty Hoyt, 1962 U.S. National Men's Champion and his family. The museum was filled with figure skating fans and a wonderful time was had by all.

Ennia Challenge Cup

ENNIA INTERNATIONALS '82

By HOWARD BASS

The seventh Ennia Internationals, again at the Uithof Stadium in the Hague, Holland, appropriately celebrated the centenary of the Royal Dutch Skating Union with a record participation of 89 skaters from 18 nations.

The four days of competition, without compulsory figures or dances, were very satisfying from an American viewpoint, with convincing victories in each of the singles and fifth places well earned by less experienced performers in each of the doubles. Four United States skaters finally won the Ennia Challenge Cup awarded to the best national team.

Brian Boitano, the men's winner at Skate Canada only a fortnight previously, eased into a lead in the short, his superiority typified by a difficult triple Lutz with one arm extended overhead. The West German Norbert Schramm, the European champion, turned an intended triple Lutz into a single, to trail in fifth behind Igor Bobrin, USSR, Jozef Sabovcik, Czechoslovakia, and Greg Filipowski, Poland.

Boitano went on to win comfortably. He landed six triples in the long, five of them different, but he and Sabovcik each failed an attempted triple Axel. Schramm, despite falling twice from triple toe loops, managed to land five triples, three different, and did well enough to pull up to second. His attire caused much merriment—a one-piece suit in wide, vivid red and yellow stripes spiralling down to one red and one yellow trouser leg with respectively matching boot covers.

Sabovcik, a rapidly improving jumper, fell from a triple Axel but well earned third place. Bobrin went to pieces, failing four triples, and sunk to a humble fifth. James White, USA, showed great jumping potential, ending seventh of 17 after falling from a triple Lutz.

Vikki de Vries, USA, was never seriously threatened en route to her women's victory, appropriate in Holland as the daughter of a former Dutch national ice hockey player.

Claudia Leistner, of West Germany, and Charlene Wong, Canada, came nearest to her in the short, all opting for triple and double toe loops. In the long, Vikki landed two triple toe loops and a good triple Salchow after stepping off an earlier triple Salchow. Her music, opening with the 20th Century-Fox fanfare and featuring easily hummable music from their films, was also a winner.

Claudia was consistently next best, excelling with triple loop, her higher marks for technical merit suggesting that the judges much preferred her contents to style. Third placed Anna Antonova included the best Biellmann spin seen since Denise left the circuit.

Tall, elegantly slim Maria Causey, USA, included some fine spins—particularly her layback. In the short, she seemed harshly marked, which being a newcomer does not, in itself, justify. Her long was marred only when touching them. Birgit fell when entering a death spiral and also erred in the throw double Axel.

Sue Garland and Ian Jenkins, Great Britain, who seem to improve each time they skate, were consistently third. Lynne and Jay Freeman, USA, fifth, dropped vital marks in the long when Linda fell from a triple throw Salchow. Cara and Craig Gill, USA, were a little out of depth in this company, but early international experience is just what Ennia ideally provides.

Current British strength in ice dancing was reflected by the winning form of Karen Barber and Nicky Slater, who kept two respected and hardly separable Soviet couples at bay throughout. Many of the Londoners' opponents looked at sea in this season's none too popular original set pattern dance to a required swingy jazz rhythm, with rock n' roll style a stipulated dominant feature.

Renee Roca and Don Adair, USA, fifth, more experienced than their teammates Eva Hunyadi and Jay Pinkerton, looked to be advancing appreciably in partnership.

From the best collective positions in the individual events, six nations qualified for the first separate international team tournament of its kind to be acknowledged by the ISU, the winner to hold the Ennia Challenge Cup for a year.

Countries to qualify were the USSR, United States, Great Britain, West Germany, and Czechoslovakia, but the West Germans withdrew because of an injury to their dancer, Birgit Goller, and were replaced by Canada.

Each nation was permitted to enter any three of the four events, all determined solely by long programs, and the United States, represented by Brian, Vikki, Roca and Don, won decisively, with East Germany the runner-up and the USSR gaining the narrowest possible verdict over Britain for third place.

Vikki easily defeated Janina Wirth, East Germany, with Charlene Wong third. Brian sealed the triumph with an equally decisive men's win over Sabovcik, who this time landed his triple Axel. Lorenz and Schubert turned the

down from a triple Salchow.

The East Germans, Birgit Lorenz and Knut Schubert, set the pairs pace with the best split double Lutz twist lift and one-hand lasso lift in the short, but their errors in the long allowed Larisa Selezneva and Oleg Makarov, USSR, to pass tables on Selezneva and Makarov in the pairs, with Garland and Jenkins again third, and there was no change in the top three of the ice dance, Barber and Slater excelling a second time.

The team event was a well received and worthwhile experiment, but whether it continues as a separate entity must depend on how the skaters feel about lifting themselves anew so soon after the individual contests.

United States victories in all three events was a significant outcome of the Ninth Skate Canada international at the Memorial Auditorium in Kitchener, Ontario, which previously played host in 1974. Brian Boitano, Rosalynn Summers, Elisa Spitz and Scott Gregory took the top honors in a collective entry of 45 skaters from 13 nations.

Boitano's triumph was impressive, his figures providing the decisive edge over the always threatening Canadian, Brian Orser.

The tall Californian led West Germany's Heiko Fischer and the Pole, Grzegorz Filipowski, in the compulsories, passing Fischer after the champion of West Germany had been front-runner in the opening rocker.

Boitano's superior paragraph bracket and paragraph loop were crucial factors in the contest. Orser had alignment problems but held fourth spot in each of the first two figures, dropping to fifth after the loops to put possible victory, as things turned out, mathematically beyond his reach.

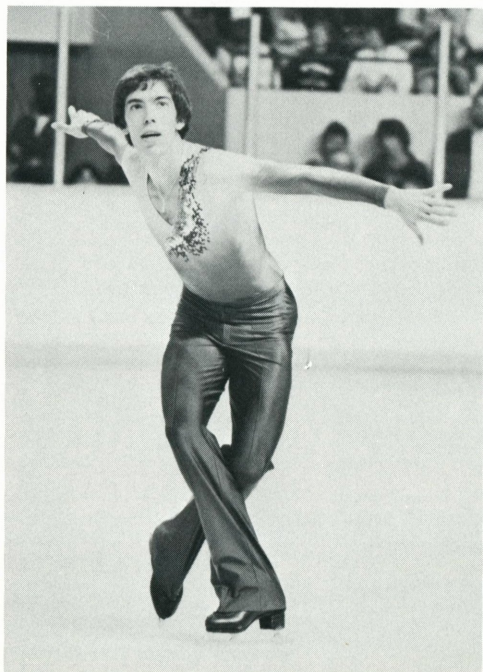

Neither of the top trio missed an element in the short, Boitano featuring a triple Lutz in his combination while Fischer, Filipowski and Orser each opted for the triple toe loop. Orser's finesse promoted him to third and U.S.'s Bobby Beauchamp, who included a triple toe walley, rose a place to fifth.

To achieve victory, Orser had not only to win the long free, he needed Fischer also to finish above Boitano, in which case the three would have tied with equal points to give the Canadian a tie-break.

Boitano duly upset that possibility by passing Fischer. Both Orser and Boitano attempted a triple Axel, but the Canadian touched down and the Californian two-footed the landing.

With jumps outweighing spins and presentation, Orser accomplished four triples—Lutz, Salchow and two toe-loops. Boitano featured three—Lutz, toe-loop and toe-Salchow—but fluffed two double Axels.

Third placed Fischer landed five triples—loop, Salchow, toe-Salchow, and two toe-loops—but fell from a triple Lutz.

Beauchamp, overall sixth, touched down on triple loop, triple Lutz and double toe-loop on not one of his best days, but he had a good program.

In the women's event Finland's Kristiina Wegelius set the early pace for Finland, pursued by Manuela Ruben from West Germany, and Rosalynn Sumners and Vikki de Vries from the U.S.

The three behind Wegelius jostled and changed places until Manuela burst through to second with persistently steady etchings. She went on to steal an overall lead after a clean short free, triple toe loop included, all her main rivals dropping vital points in the jump combination.

Rosalynn, who fell from the obligatory double toe-loop after landing the triple, did well enough to rise to level second with the Finn, whose attempt to link double Axel and double cherry disintegrated. Vikki stayed fourth after turning between her triple and double cherries.

Vikki came through in the long from fourth to a hard-earned win, overhauling the Finn as well as Rosalynn and Manuela. The winner's long free was admirable, including two triple Salchows and two triple toe-loops, carrying herself with a competent style. Her Russian split lift into a double Axel was very effective, as was her shrewd choice of dress, ideally complimenting her hair and neck to enhance appearance.

Wegelius lacked difficulty in her contents and looked as though she needed a Helsinki crowd—which she'll have in March—to inspire a more animated personality.

Rosalynn fell from a triple toe-loop and from a double Axel. Three other double Axels appeared deceptively easy and fast.

Manuela muffed her big chance, falling from triple loop and triple toe-loop and two-footing a double Salchow.

Wendy Sessions and Steve Williams, The British national third string, worried the third placed Soviets, Natalya Annenko and Genrikh Sretenski, as doggedly as the Canadians' threat to the leaders.

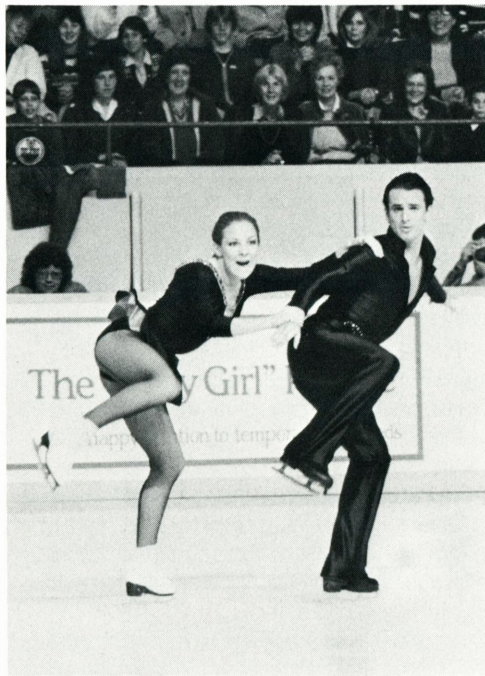

Renee Roca and Don Adair of the U.S. proved understandably more at home in the OSP than in the compulsories, having replaced Judy Blumberg and the indisposed Mike Seibert at very short notice and thus not having prepared the compulsories quite so well, these being unrequired for their Ennia entry in early November.

Although the order of the top four ice dance couples never altered throughout their contest —Elisa and Scott were always hard pressed by the much improved Canadians, Tracy Wilson and Bob McCall, whose OSP provided a most entertainingly interpretative rock 'n' roll.

This dance found everyone wanting, no couple by this time of the season having really got to grips with the newly required rhythm, which does not readily lend itself to the smooth flow of thus far, one could not quarrel with preserving the status quo in the free.

Elisa and Scott were polished, "aggressive" in their own distinctive style and particularly entertaining in their lively country folk finish.

Tracy and Bob had good content and charisma, always holding attention with suitably contrasting moods and tempos, but they lacked a small degree of the sparkle so evident in the OSP.

The Russians were attractive looking and, with typically national music, were classically modern in the mold expected of present-day Soviet ice dancers.

Wendy failed to hide the effect of trapped nerves in the neck which restricted freedom of her head and some other movements and had retarded the British couple's preparation. Their fourth place was thus the more commendable.

SKATING EXPO

displays:

Everything from airline tickets to skates and soup at Nationals

by Jim Harvey

While crowds cheer the 1983 United States National Figure Skating Championships in the Pittsburgh Civic Arena, SKATING EXPO will be taking place under the same roof from February 3 through 5. The exposition offers a chance for consumers and manufacturers to talk one-on-one while the supplier is able to see the skaters using his product.

Unlike some earlier shows in Atlanta, San Diego and Indianapolis, the show at the Arena will be located in an exhibit area rather than in the concourse. "This is extremely desirable because it offers high visibility and easy access to showgoers without interfering with crowd control," Janet Wright, exhibition manager, says.

The exhibit hall, directly under the concourse, is as easy to get to as stepping on an escalator. The exhibit area will be split between SKATING EXPO, the competitors' area, and the skaters lounge. During Zamboni breaks, announcements will be made directing people to SKATING EXPO. Joining the valued exhibitors of past years, showgoers will be able to visit USAir and Campbell Soup Company booths. These two major firms join the other exhibitors who are anxious to meet and talk with attendees. The EXPO hours run from Thursday, Feb. 3, through Saturday, Feb. 5. Hours are from 1:30 p.m. to 10:30 p.m.

USAir, a carrier serving more than 70 cities in the United States and Canada, was recently named the official carrier of the United States National Figure Skating Championships and will be manning a booth. USAir reservations and ticket counter personnel will be giving out flight information and will be able to answer questions or make reservations for the contestants and spectators. With the availability of this booth, there will be no need to go to the airport ticket counter, as every available service will be offered right at the booth in the arena.

Campbell Soup takes to SKATING EXPO and the ice this year as the U.S. Team's First National Sponsor. The famous Campbell Kids will be on hand as part of the company's exhibit to honor "The Great Skaters" through history. During peak exhibit hours, visitors to the Campbell exhibit will have the opportunity to have pictures taken with the Kids. As the first national sponsor of the U.S. Figure Skating Team, Campbell Soup Company has made a major commitment to support amateur figure skating. Campbell kicked off its efforts to support skating by sponsoring Skate America '82—Campbell Soup International Championships, a major international competition in Lake Placid, N.Y., Oct. 7 through 10, 1982. In addition, Campbell's Soups have been designated "Official Soups" of the 1984 Olympic Winter Games. Campbell's exhibit is only part of the Company's support at the United States Figure Skating Championships.

Also participating in the show will be The United States Figure Skating Association (USFSA) and the Ice Skating Institute of America (ISIA), two groups that have mutual statements of policy for cooperation.

The USFSA will have a display of many items. Available to spectators will be an explanation of the open judging system. It shows how a particular judge on the panel may give the lowest mark of the panel, but it could be the highest mark that individual judge has given for the event. There will also be a display of many USFSA items: all standard and basic test badges, USFSA pin, Memorial Fund pin, Booster Fund pin, sample program aids, World Team books and Skating magazine. Sally Warfield, chairman of the program development Committee, will be manning the booth to answer any questions concerning the USFSA, competition or the testing system.

The ISIA will have a display utilizing a slide presentation on recreational ice skating programs for tots through adults. Featured will be speed skating, hockey and figure skating.

Others in attendance will be:

- Executive Travel Advisors can book your vacation, business and commercial trips and group tours, and much more. Executive Travel offers an all-inclusive package to the World Championships in Helsinki.

- Polar Sport Ltd. Makers of fine on- and off-ice skating apparel—warmup suits, dresses, wrap skirts, body suits, matching outfits, and much more. Polar Sport invites club representatives and team leaders to inquire about the new Precision Skating Outfits.

- TB Enterprises offers fine jewelry at excellent prices. Featured are top quality skating related jewelry items.

- Riedell Shoes, Inc. of Red Wing Minn. They will be displaying their finest quality figure skating boots at the 1983 championships. Along with skating boots, the complete line of John Wilson blades will also be displayed. Riedell's complete line was recently endorsed by the Professional Skaters Guild of America. The Riedell staff will also be displaying and fitting custom made boots.

- N'ICE TIMES will present to the Skating world a new warm-up outfit: a new concept in fabric for durability and fashion. It includes jacket, leg warmers, and pull on skirt. Also included in the exhibit will be N'ICE TIMES stationery, jewelry, luggage and the "Great to Skate" sweats.

- Oberhamer Shoe Co. will be displaying their top models of figure skating boots. Roy Oberhamer will be available to take measurements for custom built boots. Thomas Wecker, orthotist and pedorthotist, will be taking impressions of feet from which innersoles, which match the bottom of the foot exactly, can be made. This innersole can be fitted to Oberhamer Custom Built or stock boots.

- The Professional Skaters Guild of America. The group is growing and now approximately 900 people belong to the only organization dedicated to careers of America's skating coaches.

- The SR logo is synonymous with Scott Richards, a fashion creator determined to bring designer label quality, originality and a fresh new uniqueness to the world of skating.

- JP Designs, Inc. are makers of fine skating apparel. The matching collection for men, women and children offers two and three color designs as well as solids to project a dramatic look for pairs and teams. Special assistance is available for clubs and drill teams.

TOTAL IMAGE is a "totally" new concept in personal grooming created by Arline M. Voepel. It offers men and women the opportunity to look their best. Working with clients on an individual basis, TOTAL IMAGE has performed its magic on professional organizations, management associations and Olympic Athletes. Staff members have worked with movie stars, major models and several "Miss Americas." Recent experience at the World Figure Skating Championships included clients from 23 nations.

CAMPBELL'S HEALTH AND FITNESS SEMINAR TO FEATURE "HANDS-ON" CLINIC

"Health and Fitness for the Figure Skater," a unique seminar for skaters, their parents and coaches, will be one of the highlights of the 1983 United States National Figure Skating Championships in Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania.

Scheduled for Saturday, February 5, from 9 a.m. until noon at the Hyatt Pittsburgh, the free seminar is being sponsored by Campbell Soup Company and Pittsburgh's Central Medical Center and Hospital, in conjunction with the United States Figure Skating Association (USFSA). It will focus on nutrition, stretching exercises, injury prevention and psychology for the figure skater, featuring a line-up of highly qualified speakers.

Dr. Arnold E. Denton, President of Campbell Soup Company's Institute for Research and Technology, will present useful information on the relationships between nutrition and athletic performance. Dr. Denton is a member of the USFSA's Sports Medicine Committee, the American Institute of Nutrition and the American Council on Science and Health.

Other featured speakers for the seminar are Dr. Franklin S. Nelson, Chairman of the USFSA Sports Medicine Committee, former United States Dance Bronze Medalist (1955), World Singles' Judge and Clinical Associate Professor of Surgery at Oklahoma Medical College, Tulsa; Dr. David W. Jenkins, 1956 Olympic Championship Bronze medalist, U.S. Team physician for the 1983 World Championships, and Clinical Professor of Medicine, University of Oklahoma School of Medicine; and Arleen A. Walaszek, physical therapist for the Boston Ballet Company.

Moderating the seminar will be Dr. John W. Cunningham, consultant to Central Medical Center in Pittsburgh and Course Director and Clinical Instructor of Emergency Medicine at Ohio State University, Columbus, Ohio.

Unlike skating sports medicine seminars held in the past, "Health and Fitness for the Figure Skater" will include a "hands-on" clinic for coaches, at which they will have the opportunity to work with physicians in small groups on such topics as injury recognition, joint stability testing and muscle strength evaluation.

Staffing the coaches' clinic will be physicians from Central Medical and the faculty of a continuing education program for physicians on sports medicine for the figure skater, scheduled for Friday, February 4.

The program planned for skaters and parents will address health and fitness concerns of special interest to them.

Eating right on a busy schedule, coping with the stress of success and avoiding injury will be among the topics discussed.

"Health and Fitness for the Figure Skater" will offer skaters, parents and coaches the opportunity to discuss training questions and problems with top experts from all over the country. Remember it's free! Don't miss it!

rest on your chest. Keep it moving to the right lower corner and then up to the right upper corner. Now reverse this and try doing it with more speed until it becomes a fluid movement.

10. Starting with the half roll, continue moving your chin up to the top center of the frame, then to the top left corner and down to the left middle between top and bottom. This makes a complete head roll and you should practice doing it in the opposite direction also. Be sure you hit all the points and try to do these faster and then in reverse.

These head positions can be done with sharp attacks or they can flow with the body and arm movements. Many times skaters are concentrating so much on working on their jumps and other technical aspects of skating, that they fail to realize how important the simple gestures of the head in various directions can be in adding color and interest to a movement.

When you have introduced head gestures into your skating program, you will have added another dimension to your skating and artistic presentation.
